KITCHEN SANITATION

This describes the guidelines for handling food and maintaining kitchen hygiene and is applicable to all staff handling food as well as working in the kitchen. Proper food handling and sanitation techniques are necessary to prevent the spread of communicable diseases.

Poor hygiene

- Like personal hygiene \ Storage of food \ Separation of food \ inadequate cooking may cause outbreak of infection.
- Outbreak of Bacterial food poisoning by salmonella & staphylococcus is the most common cause.
- Bacteria can be transferred to the patient (or staff) from contaminated raw food e.g. meat, chicken, fish, inadequately cooked or indirectly contaminated by the hands of the staff or in adequately cleaned surface or equipment.

- The main route of transfer of infection to food is through the hands of the staff.
 - Hand should be washed before entering kitchen and periodically. Finger nails should be cut and kept clean.
 - Nose, lips and hair should NOT be touched while handling the food.
 - Hair should be covered.
 - Personal clothing should be changed daily.
 - Protective clothing provided must be worn.
 - No Smoking in the Kitchen.
 - All cuts must be covered.
 - Hand should be washed with warm water with anti-septic lotion specially after using the toilet and before handling the food

In addition to hands particular care to be given to the nails between the fingers and the fore arm

CROCKERY, CUTLERY, POTS AND PANS need efficient rinsing, water to be changed frequently, and to be dried after cleaning. These items should be checked regularly. Stained or broken items to be removed

STORAGE AND TRANSPORTATION OF FOOD

- Raw meat, chicken, vegetable fish and egg should be stored separately. Cooked food and raw food should be kept separately.
- Food waste must not be accumulated in kitchen, and it should remove frequently.
- The food should be handled by that staff that are trained in food hygiene.
- Raw vegetables and meat are bought on a daily basis. Hence there is no need for mass storage.

Payment

The Provider shall invoice the Client on a monthly basis.

Right to Terminate

The Client shall have the right to cancel this Canteen service contract by providing written notice to the Provider for the following reasons:

- Inadequate Staffing
- Health Code Violations
- Failure to properly use and maintain facilities in accordance with the listed scope of services

• Failure to provide adequate Canteen services to the Hospital as per this agreement
Likewise, should the Client cancel this Canteen service contract for any of the above reasons, the contract shall be considered terminated with cause in accordance with applicable law.

Contract Renewal

This Canteen service contract can be renewed by the client if necessary prior to its expiration date. Failure to renew the contract prior to expiration may lead to a lapse in services by the provider.

Inspections

The Client shall have the right to periodically inspect the Facility to ensure that the Provider is adhering to the terms of this Canteen service contract and particularly to applicable Canteen service regulations and public safety regulations.

Independent Contractor

The Provider shall be classified as an independent contractor. Neither the Provider nor their employees may be classified as employees of the Client.

Licensing

The Provider shall be solely responsible for procuring and maintaining all licenses, permits, and authorizations if any required of a Canteen service provider by law.

Liability

Both the Client and Provider agree to indemnify and hold one another harmless against any and all claims of loss or damage, save in cases of gross negligence or wilful misconduct.

Contract Acceptance

By affixing their signatures below, both parties hereby enter into and swear to abide by and uphold the terms of this Canteen service contract.
